Mysuru, July 25 (RK&NNN)- The 112 nursing students including three male students, who had protested seeking adequate security following perverts entering the Girls Nursing Hostel in the K.R. Hospital premises, have all proceeded on leave en masse for a week.

However, it is not only these students but even the 165 B.Sc Nursing students have also locked their rooms and gone on mass leave.

Meanwhile, the Hospital authorities have swung into action following directions from Deputy Commissioner (DC) Abhiram G. Sankar to secure the hostel by installing iron grill gates and windows, clearing the place of weeds and wild growth and taking up civil works.

The work is going on at full pace with the Mysuru City Corporation's (MCC) Abhaya team clearing the branches of trees and bringing JCB to clear the weeds. K.R. Hospital Resident Medical Officer (RMO) Dr. M.S. Rajesh Kumar and Principal of the Nursing School Helen D'Silva are supervising the work since this morning.

MMC&RI (Mysore Medical College and Research Institute) Dean and Director Dr. Nanjaraja told SOM here this morning that Devaraja Police have deployed more Police around the hostel and even the private security guarding the hostel has been increased with security guards working in three shifts.

Stalemate continues as lorry strike enters 6th day

Mysuru, July 25 (US&RKB)- Stalemate continues as the nationwide lorry strike entered the 6th day today with about 4,000 lorries keeping off roads.

The lorry strike, however, has not affected the supply of vegetables and some essential commodities as a faction of Lorry Association has stayed away from the strike thus benefiting the consumers.

As against a supply of about 2,500 quintals of rice to APMC yard in Bandipalya here daily, a small quantity of about 400

Vegetable supply remains normal

quintals is said to be arriving at the yard possibly through other modes of transport, according to APMC sources.

However, the supply of onion, potato and other vegetables is almost normal with due consideration for local farmers and perishable agri-produce.

The worst hit are the labourers and weighmen working at APMC yard with no wages.

District Lorry Owners Association President B. Kodandaram told Star of Mysore that the lorry strike was effective but maintained that the small farmers were spared from the hardship.

MUDA Comr. inspects

At the behest of Deputy Commissioner Abhiram G. Sankar, MUDA Commissioner P.S. Kantharaju inspected the spot near Railway Goods Shed in Metagalli this morning where the lorry owners are demanding to restore the road linking the Shed and the Ring Road which is held back by the Railways.

Etiquette for (of) law-makers

Thanks to various factors impacting interpersonal relationships in our times, people at large seem to be bestowing low premium to be pleasant towards others in word, deed and thought — take your pick. Scholars refer to instances witnessing persons who take care to be pleasant always in these three channels, making interactions both rewarding and worth remembering, attribute such conduct to samskara, meaning 'quality acquired during past birth.' Sidelining the point of whether one believes in past birth or not, one is puzzled about polite and mannerly conduct of some while rudeness in speech and unfriendly posture are the hallmark of behaviour in case of many in society. Greeting both known persons and strangers with the word 'namaskara' or 'namaste' by bringing together one's palms in front of chest, clearly accepted as an exclusive Indian practice, has its origins in the country's history dating back to antiquity. The practice of genu-flexing (bending one's knees) while coming face to face before the British monarch marks the time-honoured conduct of the people of England as a gesture of deep respect. Lying prostrate before the elderly in society, to be respectful is also an exclusively Indian practice, now not so common.

Although the rules of good conduct or etiquette are not written and therefore not quoted unlike the rules of games or of a government, one cannot be faulted for saying that the culture of etiquette is nurtured by families of certain well-marked sections of society. Education, with its restricted meaning, is said to lead to imbibing etiquette, a postulate many may discount in our times.

Both pleasant conduct and rude behaviour are in the nature of habits, knowledge of which shall enable one to interact with persons of either kind. Not guarding oneself in deals with habitually or otherwise rude and ill-behaving persons, a common occurrence these days, has led to undesirable consequences such as fisticuffs, exchange of foul-worded abuses, assault and even fatalities, as one comes across in the columns of dailies virtually everyday. The floors of legislative bodies starting from the nation's Parliament down to Gram Panchayats are glaring examples of the ill-behaving elected representatives, barring a few exceptions.

Expecting grown-ups, unaware of the imperatives of rudeness in public domain to benefit from efforts to reform their conduct reminds one of the Kannada saying Gidavagi baggaddu, maravagi baggithe. The context is the news under the headline "Etiquette class for legislators" published in a daily last week.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Puducherry LG Kiran Bedi, known to make sensational statements, posted a message recently that left many irritated, if not outright angry. After the France-Croatia FIFA World Cup final match, she tweeted, "We the Puducherrians (erstwhile French Territory) won the World Cup. Congratulations friends." One Arya Gangopadhyay tweeted a shot of Emmanuel Macron fist pumping after the team's victory, and said, "Your President." Twitter user Avanish Kumar asked, "What if England was in the final and won? Then you would say we Indians, erstwhile British territory, won the finals." For the records, India, ranked 97 in the world, did not qualify to play in the tournament. — In Business Standard.

Cat and dog paw-flavoured ice cream in Japan

Tokyo: Japan's fascination with cat paws is not new. To many Japanese feline lovers feel that cat paws smell like nice things (right from caramel crepes, to wheat and sunflowers) and their soft, smooth texture is considered mysteriously soothing. Cat paws are so popular that a couple of years ago, a company came out with a hand-cream that not only left the users' hands as smooth to the touch as a cat's paw, but also made their skin smell like it too. But now, the organizers of Japan Pet Fair, are taking this obsession one step further with two unique ice creams designed to have the texture and flavor of cat and dog paws.

These are apparently real food products that curious eaters were allowed to sample at the the Japan Pet Fair in Osaka. They don't contain any real animal paws, but their makers have added various ingredients to the base vanilla ice cream that allegedly recreate both the texture and smell of cat and dog paws.

Featuring a total of 35 rooms split into four categories, Catzonia is manned by a crew of feline lovers who promise to play with the guests, groom them and generally make sure their stay is as comfortable as possible.

Dog and Pig menace: MCC clarifies

Sir,

Apropos the Dog and Pig menace at various localities in city (SOM dated 4.7.2018 and 7.7.2018), the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) staff have visited the spots at Gokulam on 9.7.2018 and Srirampura 2nd Stage on 10.7.2018, and captured the unsterilised dogs.

Majority of the dogs found were sterilised. As per the Animal Birth Control (Dogs) Rules 2001, we are not supposed to kill or relocate the dogs. MCC has adopted ABC programme which is existing throughout the country to control dog menace.

And on the same day MCC officials visited the place and shifted the pigs from that location. To control pig menace in city, MCC has taken measures. There are about 40-50 families in city who are dependent mainly on pig-rearing. Efforts are being made to relocate the pigs from the city limits.

For the time being, to control pig menace in the city, MCC officials are warning the pig owners not to let their animals in public places and to rear their animals in captivity.

Provide second passage for Ring Road Railway under-bridges

Sir,

With the construction of the Outer Ring Road and subsequent usage of the same by the users a decade ago, the traffic density has doubled. In the recent past many major and minor accidents have taken place frequently. I wonder why the Railways in collaboration the local MCC are not taking up the work of making another passage underneath the Railway tracks. The present single pass through is creating confusion and traffic commotion during peak hours. There are three Railway under-bridges from Hotel Royal Inn till Columbia Asia Hospital. It is high time the Railways should look into this and pave way at another side for smooth flow of traffic.

Aged couple found drowning in Kapila River

Man meets watery grave, wife survives

Nanjangud, July 25 (Ravi &NNN)- In a tragic incident, an aged couple from Bengaluru was found drowning in the Kapila River by the locals. While they managed to save the woman, the man drowned. The unfortunate incident occurred near the Hadinaru Kalu Mantapa.

Nagaraju (70), a resident of Dasarahalli in Bengaluru, is the one who met the watery grave and his wife Kalavathi, 60, was saved. She was found caught in the branch of a tree and locals rescued and admitted her to the Government Hospital.

Kalavathi, in her statement to the Police, has said that they came to visit the Nanjangud Temple. They went to the Hadinaru Kalu Mantapa nearby to have a bath and while bathing, they slipped into the water. The Police have registered a case, according to her statement.

However, at the same time, their son Santosh had filed a missing complaint about his parents in the Amruthalli Police Station in Bengaluru.

Kalavathi, wife of deceased Nagaraju.

The unconfirmed TV channel reports said that the couple might have tried to take their lives because of the superstitious belief that by dying in Kapila River they will attain moksha (salvation).

Did the couple, who left home three days ago, try to commit suicide by jumping into the river because of family problems? Or did they really have this superstitious belief that they would attain moksha by ending their lives here? Or as the woman has claimed did they slip and fall into the river? are the questions that arise.

It may be recalled that Star of Mysore had published a story under the title "Cop who dignifies death of unclaimed bodies" in its issue dated July 23, wherein it said that just like people go to Kashi to die, the belief here is that if they come here and breath their last near the Cauvery River in Sriranagapatna, they will attain salvation. Hence, many of them instead of going to distant Kashi are coming here to die and these days the numbers have increased.

The man, who was sentenced, is 38-year-old Jayaramu alias Bangaru of Devitandre village in K.R. Nagar taluk. He had strangulated his wife on Apr.10, 2013.

The victim, Rathnamma, daughter of Beluraiah of Gulaganjihalli in Holenarasipur taluk, was given in marriage to Jayaramu 15 years ago and the couple has two children.

Jayaramu, who was addicted to liquor, used to come home drunk daily, and assault his wife. Depressed over her husband's behaviour, Rathnamma had left the house along with her children and was staying at her parents' house. She had also filed a case at K.R. Nagar JMFC Court seeking alimony.

On Apr. 10, 2013, Rathnamma, who had appeared before the Court, was waiting for the bus to go back to her parents' house when Jayaramu asked her to come to his place as he wanted to get her rice and new dress for the children for the festival. He then took her to the village and strangulated her, thus killing her.

Saligrama Police, who had registered the case following a complaint by Rathnamma's brother Manjunath, conducted investigation and had submitted a charge-sheet against Jayaramu to the Court. Judge Vijayakumar M. Ananda Shetty, who heard the arguments from both the sides, found Jayaramu guilty of the crime and sentenced him to life imprisonment. Public Prosecutor Ajith Kumar D. Hamigi argued on behalf of the Government.

In this week's Pet Talk, Maneka tells how to identify an aged cat and the difference between rats and mice.

Pet Talk

Maneka Gandhi

What is the average lifespan of a cat?

A cat's average life span is 10 to 12 years.

How to tell if a cat is male or female?

If you look at a female cat's genital area, the space just under her tail, it will look like an upside down exclamation point (!) with the long slit of the vaginal area below the anus.

The male cat has a narrower space between the anus and the penis, with the testicles in the middle. Most neutered male cats will still show the vestigial remnants of a testicle sac, and the anus and penis will still be relatively close together.

One other, simpler (but less reliable) way to tell the sex of your cat is by the colour of its coat. Cats with three colours — white, black, and orange — are sometimes called tortoiseshell cats. Such cats are almost always female. Orange cats are most often male though there are certainly orange females as well, so this is not a reliable technique.

What are five common symptoms to determine aged or senior cats?

A senior cat is aged 8 to 10 years old or older.

1. Slowing Down: Other signs of slowing down include a cat that takes longer cat naps and may sleep for longer stretches. Old games of "chase the mechanised mouse" or "catch the string" may no longer get your cat moving. You may even notice if your cat has some difficulty going up and down stairs.

2. Reduced Hearing: Just like humans, cats can experience hearing loss. The rate of loss is variable. For some cats, hearing loss may be barely noticeable, or it can be total.

3. Cloudy Eyes: Like dogs, cat's eyes often show a bluish transparent haze in the pupil area. This is a normal effect of aging. The medical term for this is lenticular sclerosis.

4. Thinning of the Iris: Iris atrophy, or thinning of the iris, may occur in some cats' eyes, particularly those with irises lighter in colour, like blue-eyed cats. The eye's iris may appear to have splotches, or appear "moth-eaten." Except for in extreme cases, this condition usually does not affect vision. This condition may occur only in one eye and can cause some cats to become light sensitive.

5. Muscle Loss: Loss of muscle mass, called muscle atrophy, may occur in old age. Some cats with diabetes can have nerve problems and lose hind muscle mass.

Do cats have menopause?

Only humans, and some apes, go through menopause. Other species, including cats, continue to have oestrous cycles throughout their lives. As cats age, the cycles might be less frequent and fertility declines.

How does your house attract rats?

Rats can live on just an ounce of food and water each day, so, when food is bountiful, they will make themselves at home. Rats are attracted to homes, businesses and restaurants, and they will feed from the trash if it is left uncovered, or if they can gnaw through a receptacle to gain entrance.

Signs that rats have invaded a home or business include gnawing and scurrying sounds in the attic or walls, as well as chewed spots, wood chips, wood shavings and tooth marks in baseboards, windows, doors, electrical cords or even packaged foods. Droppings are also a definitive sign of a rat infestation. Although rats can grow quite large, they are flexible and can fit through very small openings, including holes and cracks in foundations or walls, even if the opening is as small as a dime. They also enter through vents, open windows and grates. Even openings that are made for wires and pipes in the foundation of a home can give rats access.

What is the difference between rats and mice?

MICE — • Size: House mice measure 12 to 20 cm in length, including the tail, and weigh 12 to 30 grams; • Colour: They may be white, brown or grey in colour; • Head: Their snouts are triangular and feature long whiskers; • Tails: Mice have large, floppy ears and long, thin, hairy tails; They can live up to six years in captivity though most naturally live less than a year. Mice are nocturnal, timid, social and territorial in nature.

RATS — • Size: Rats are medium-sized to large rodents. However, rats may grow to be as long as 40 cm or more and weigh considerably more than mice; • Colour: Their coats are white, grey, brown or black in colour and are often soiled enough to leave grease marks on touched surfaces; • Head: The snout of the rat is blunter than that of the mouse; • Tails: Long tails that are commonly hairless and scaly.

Are rats clean animals?

Rats are very clean animals and groom themselves several times a day. Rats prefer to live in a clean habitat and they do not have a naturally strong or offensive odour.

Do horses get fleas?

Horses can get fleas, although it's not very common. They tend not to get infested, but they can be affected by them.

Mysuru Memories...

Prof. M. Hiriyanna

The Socrates of Mysore

He was an eminent Sanskrit Scholar, Philosopher and authority on Indian Aesthetics. Samskruta Sevadhurina Mysore Hiriyanna was the very embodiment of simplicity and humility. His philosophy lectures in the class rooms at Maharaja College, Mysore, later became a best-seller in the West under the title "Outlines of Indian Philosophy"! Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan visited Hiriyanna at his residence on Diwan's road for advice and pointers on Philosophical matters of importance. Now read on...

By Dr. S. N. Bhagirath

Mysore Hiriyanna was born on 7th May 1871 in Mysore to parents Nanjundaiah and Lakshmidevi. They belonged to the 'Uluchukamma' sub-sect of Brahmins — a community which included the likes of Vidyaranya who founded the Vijayanagar Empire. They hailed from the hamlet of Barigehalli in Tumkur district. Hiriyanna was the sixth child and his younger brother was M. N. Krishna Rao — who would later become acting Diwan of Mysore (1941).

Hiriyanna was educated in Sanskrit under the tutelage of Perisamy Tirumalacharya (Founder of Sadvidya Patashala) and Kashi Sesharamasastry. He completed his B.A. and M.A. at Madras Christian College, Madras.

Hiriyanna married Lakshmidevamma at a young age and the couple had one daughter — Rukamma. Hiriyanna started work as a Librarian at Oriental Research Institute (ORI), Mysore in 1891. Here, he took up the work of curating about 1,653 printed works and 1,358 manuscripts (Kannada and Sanskrit). He then took up a government job in the Education Department at Bangalore and served for three years. He always nursed an ambition to 'teach' and secured an L.T. Qualification from Teacher's College, Saidapet in this regard. He came back to Mysore and joined 'Government Normal School' as a teacher in 1896. He eventually became Head Master by 1907. Here, he penned his first book in Kannada titled "Bodhana Krama" on the 'Art of teaching.'

He joined Maharaja College as a Lecturer in Sanskrit in 1912. T. Denham was the Principal of Maharaja College during this time and was succeeded later by B.M. Srikantayya. Denham, Srikantayya and H.J. Babha were all amply aware of Hiriyanna's scholarship and considered him an asset. In fact, Hiriyanna's reputation as a great scholar and teacher led H. V. Nanjundaiah (the first Vice-Chancellor of the University of Mysore) to appoint him as a Lecturer. Two years later, he became an Assistant Professor. Hiriyanna was a successor to such Sanskrit scholars as Perisamy Tirumalacharya, Asthan Vidwan Kaviratna Mandikallu Ramasastri, Kasturi Ranga Iyengar and Ventakarama Sastri.

Wife - Lakshmidevamma (sitting) and daughter - Rukamma

Prof. A. R. Wadia, Head of the Department of Philosophy, requested Hiriyanna to come and teach Indian Philosophy to students. By this time, Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan was also on the faculty. Radhakrishnan requested Hiriyanna to engage his classes as he was busy writing a book on "Indian Philosophy." The class room lectures of M. Hiriyanna were so comprehensive, S. Radhakrishnan recommended these lectures to be published by Allen & Unwin in a book form, titled "Outlines of Indian Philosophy." This became a best-seller in the West.

In 1919, Hiriyanna was appointed as a Professor of Sanskrit. After an illustrious teaching career spanning two decades, Hiriyanna retired from the University in 1927 at the age of 56 years.

He received a number of invitations from Universities across the country to come and teach. He declined every one of these requests. He was content to delve deep into his studies spending his time at the house he had built on Diwan's road (House No. 962) in Mysore in 1910. In 1935, he was Chairperson of the All India Oriental Conference at Mysore. In 1939, he was requested to chair the All India Philosophy Conference at Hyderabad. In 1940, he was invited to deliver the prestigious "Miller's Memorial Lecture" on Philosophy at Madras University. Surprisingly, Hiriyanna accepted this offer and graced the occasion — probably the only instance when he left Mysore to attend an event elsewhere! He was also honoured with the title of "Samskruta Sevadhurina" by the Madras Sanskrit Academy.

Hiriyanna always kept to himself. He was charitable and helped many poor students with the condition that they should never reveal his name! He was a traditional Sanskrit scholar by training but a Philosopher who had an in-depth knowledge of both Eastern and Western Philosophies. His love of English Literature was well-known. He regularly read the "Times Literary Supplement" and "Illustrated London News." During the last decade of his life, he visited the house of Palghat Narayana Sastri with whom he would discuss for hours the finer aspects of Indian Philosophy, Vedanta and the Upanishads.

Dance recital on July 28

On July 28, there will be a dance performance by Vidu. Bhramari Shivaprakash along with vocal support by Vid. Krishnapavankumar. Being a promising youngster in the field of Bharathanatyam, Bhramari has carved a niche for herself in experimental and creative productions. Being a disciple of Vid. Kodavur Madhavarao and Vidu. Vasundhara Doraswamy, she has imbibed both Pandanallur and Vasundhara style of dance.

About Ganabharathi

Ganabharathi, Veene Seshanna Bhavana, in Kuvempunagar, was inaugurated on Oct. 26, 1991 by Dr. Veerendra Heggade, the Dharmadhikari of Dharmasthala, in the presence of Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Swamiji.

A number of eminent persons were involved in the starting of this organisation and the name 'Ganabharathi' was suggested by Prof. C.K.N. Raja. Ganabharathi honours senior artistes and holds music festivals and competitions. Many books such as Kallusakkare, Kanaka Samputa, Haridas Vangmaya, Dasa Sahitya etc., have been published.

The organisation has also been conducting classes for vocal music, veena, mridanga, flute, keyboard and dance since 1992 and there are nearly 500 students attending these classes today.

The concept of having an open air theatre in the space which was available in the northern side of Ganabharathi originated in the year 2012. At that point of time, Ganabharathi President Dr. C.G.Narasimhan requested city's well-known industrialist and philanthropist M. Jagannath Shenoy to donate generously for the construction of an open air auditorium.

After seeing the space and learning about the approximate cost which was Rs.40 lakh, Shenoy told the President to go ahead with the project and that he would provide the required funds. The construction started in 2012. The task was assigned to the well-known design and structural engineer M.S. Vijayashankar. The civil works was undertaken by K.C. Nandakumar, a private builder. The construction took about one-and-half-years to reach a concrete shape and the open air auditorium 'Srimathi Ramabai Govinda Rao Rangamandira' was inaugurated in Sept. 2014.

The main objective was to provide a platform for the residents of Kuvempunagar and nearby localites who are connoisseurs of music and to promote cultural activities like music, dance and drama. Seating capacity of this open air theatre is about 550-600.

Besides Jagannath Shenoy, the Karnataka government under former Chief Minister Siddharamaiah too provided funds to construct a roof to cover the open area to make it a semi-open air space.

In addition, by the efforts of former Minister Prof. B.K.Chandrashekar, a sum of Rs. 20 lakh, in two instalments was provided by Kannada and Culture Department to construct a gallery type of seating for 250 people. The stage has a green room on either side with adequate facilities. This theatre is meant only for cultural programmes.

G. Madhusudan, former MLC, was largely responsible for donating funds at the early stages of the project particularly for the construction of the compound wall and a concrete bridge on the northern side of the Bhavana for the movement of vehicles.

K.V. Mallesh, the local area Corporator took the initiative to get the storm water drains covered with concrete slabs to provide parking space.

S.A. Ramdas, former Minister and present legislator provided funds for the rest room (toilet) facilities for men and women.

For the Ramabai Govinda Rao auditorium to be what it is today, Ganabharathi has expressed its gratitude to at least twelve other donors, apart from the main patron Jagannath Shenoy and the untiring efforts put in by its President Dr. C.G. Narasimhan, who mobilised funds and supervised the completion of the project.

The curtains were drawn with 'Kayo Srigowri', the nadageethe of Mysuru dynasty. The Sanskrit shlokas sung at the beginning and at the end saluting the Wadiyar, were with reverence to the great personality.

It is well-known that Jayachamarajendra Wadiyar was a 'Srividya Upasaka' and an ardent devotee of Goddess Devi. Highlighting the same, his kritis on Goddess Devi were melodiously rendered by Vidushis Meera Manjunath, Dr. Veena Ravikumar, Dhathri Kumar, Medha Manjunath, Nithyashree, D.N. Swathi and Manya Manjunath. Vid. G.S. Ramanujan and C.V. Shruthi supported well on mridanga and violin respectively. Saplings planted under power lines at Sathagalli

Saplings have been planted close to the overhead power lines on a stretch of road in Sathagalli near Shishu Children's Hospital which would pose danger as the saplings grow in future. This apart, the said road is a link from the Ring Road to Dr. Rajkumar Road in Kalyangiri and heavy traffic is expected in future which would force the authorities to widen the road by chopping the saplings which would have grown as trees by then. Why plant now and kill them later? Authorities concerned are urged to look into the future before initiating such schemes.

Mysuru, July 25 (SV)- The First Certificate Award Ceremony for the Post Graduate Programme in Sports Management (PGPSM)students was held for the Sports Management Programme students of SDM Institute for Management Development (SDM IMD) and Centre for Sports & Management Studies (CS&MS) at the Institute campus on July 20.

The chief guest for the occasion was former International Tennis Player Somdev Devvaraman, Brand Ambassador of Sport Management Programme. He congratulated the graduating students of the first batch and awarded them with their sports management certificates.

Addressing the gathering, he said, "India is a country where the sports sector is growing rapidly. The health index of India ranks outside 100 and this has become a massive concern. The simplest way to fix this problem is to involve India with sports. There is a huge spectrum in India with the surge of Kabadi, IPL, Marathon, etc. Sports is not just a luxury now, but it is a necessity. We as a country need to improve in this field and SDMIMD and CS&MS is preparing the students for the future of sports."

Highlighting on the Greatest-Of-All-Time (GOAT) debate, Somdev said, "it is to be noted that there has been comparisons of who the GOAT is over the generation; but one should realise that all these great players are great learners. Sportspersons like Rafael Nadal, Virat Kohli and Roger Federer all follow a particular kind of process. Roger Federer with his never say die attitude came back after a major knee injury and won the Australian Open at the age of 37. It is because these sportsmen are always eager and hungry to learn. People should be process oriented and not result oriented. Winning is a by-product, so give your best and take up the process in the right way." He also emphasised on the importance of being a team player and the need to develop a learning mind-set.

Earlier, Dr. H. Gayathri, Program Director - PGPSM and Deputy Director, SDMIMD, delivered the welcome address and gave a brief timeline of the graduating students during their course of study at the College.

She was filled with joy that all the students have been placed in various sports academies and sports management companies.

Dr. Gayathri added that the sports industry will grow rapidly by 2020 and it is a labour intensive and people oriented industry.

Enrico Piperno, Founder, CS&MS, speaking on the occasion, congratulated the graduates. He added that these students are ahead of the curve.

Raghav Prasad, Faculty Member, PGPSM, proposed a vote of thanks. Faculty members M.J. Charan, C.K. Muralidharan, Vijay Krishnamurthy and Shama Rao were also present.

Call to Congress workers to strive for LS polls victory

Mysuru, July 25 (MTY&DM)- Expressing disappointment over the Congress loss in the Assembly polls despite the good administration of Siddharamaiah, former Legislative Council Chairman and Senior Congress leader V.R. Sudarshan has asked party workers to ensure the victory of the party candidates in the forthcoming Lok Sabha polls.

Speaking at Dr. B.R. Ambedkar and Babu Jagjivan Ram birth anniversary celebrations organised by Mysuru District Congress at Congress Bhavan near the city Railway Station here yesterday, Sudarshan emphasised that the party workers should overcome all hurdles in ensuring the victory of party candidates in LS polls.

Underlining the need for the workers to introspect on the reasons for the party's defeat in the Assembly polls, he said that it was important for the party workers to move forward and win the Lok Sabha polls.

He also cautioned the party workers against making any statements that embarrass the party.

Industries Minister K.J. George, in his address, said that Congress had formed the coalition Government in the State in order to keep out the BJP from power.

Accusing the BJP Government at the Centre of non-performance, he called upon the party workers to organise the party from the booth-level and thus ensure the victory of the party in LS polls.

Minister George, newly-elected Legislators Tanveer Sait, Dr. Yathindra Siddharamaiah and Anil Chikkamadu were felicitated on the occasion.

Marking the occasion, floral tributes were offered to the portraits of Dr. B.R. Ambedkar and Babu Jagjivan Ram.

Congress mulling on fielding Yaduveer from Mysuru in Lok Sabha polls?

Yaduveer

Bengaluru, July 25 (KMS&DM)- Even as the State Coalition Government partners — JD(S) and Congress — are yet to conclude seat sharing talks for the 2019 Lok Sabha polls, the Congress is said to be mulling on fielding Royal Family Titular Head Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar from Mysuru-Kodagu Constituency as the party candidate.

AICC President Rahul Gandhi, who is said to be keen on bringing the royal family member into the party fold, reportedly held talks with former Chief Minister Siddharamaiah during the meeting between the two leaders (Rahul and Siddu) at the Parliament Hall in New Delhi recently.

During the course of the meeting, Rahul is said to have asked Siddharamaiah to contest the Lok Sabha polls. But Siddu is said to have declined to contest, saying that he would extensively campaign for Congress candidates across the State and strive for their victory. Rahul Gandhi then is said to have asked the former CM to convince Yaduveer to contest as the Congress candidate from Mysuru-Kodagu LS seat. But Siddharamaiah, maintaining that Yaduveer had no interest in entering politics, urged Rahul Gandhi not to leave Mysuru seat to JD(S) while also asserting that it will be his (Siddu) responsibility to ensure the win of Congress candidate.

However, Rahul is said to have advised Siddharamaiah not to leave any chances of bringing Yaduveer into the party fold. Siddharamaiah, who is strongly against a Congress-JD(S) tie up for the Lok Sabha polls, is said to have unwillingly agreed to Rahul Gandhi's plan for contesting the LS polls jointly with the JD(S) so as to effectively take on the BJP.

Issuing fake certificates to foreign students

Court stays suspension of Srikantha College Principal

Mysuru, July 25 (SPN&KS)- The Mysuru District Third Additional Civil Court (Junior Division) has temporarily stayed the suspension of Srikantha College Principal Chandrababu, who is facing charges of issuing fake certificates to foreign students whose Visas were expired and thus helping them to stay in city illegally.

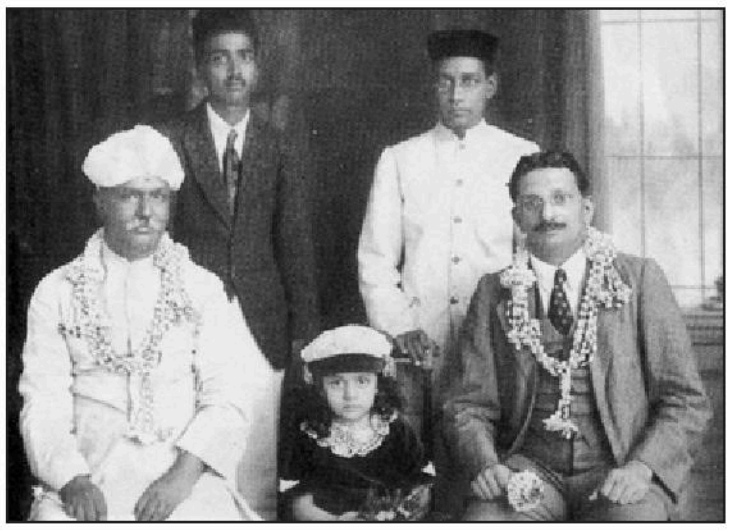
A case was registered against Chandrababu at K.R. Police Station in this regard.

Chandrababu, had a MoU signed between him and Sri Varadaraj Iyengar Memorial Trust for taking care of the administration and business development of Srikantha College in 2010 and had been taking care of them with utmost care.

But a few miscreants, misusing the College letterhead and seal, had forged the signature of the Principal and had issued fake study certificates to foreign students to tarnish his image and also the Trust had taken steps to suspend him (Chandrababu), following which Chandrababu had knocked the doors of the Court for a stay.

As the Court was apprised that the Investigation Report was yet to be submitted to the Court, the Court has stayed the suspension, said K.C. Raghunath, advocate for Chandrababu who has clarified that the stay will not apply for the investigation.

Prof. M. Hiriyanna: The Socrates of Mysore



Prof. M. Hiriyanna with Prof. A. R. Wadia.

He was a close friend of Kuppuswami Sastry, a Sanskrit Professor of eminence at Madras University. Incidentally, much of Hiriyanna's library would eventually be donated to the "Kuppuswami Research Institute" at Mylapore. Hiriyanna authored nearly twenty works. Some of the notable ones are "Outlines of Indian Philosophy" (1932), "Essentials of Indian Philosophy" (1949), "The Quest for Perfection" (1952) and "Art Experience" (1954).

After a brief period of illness, Hiriyanna passed away aged 79 years, on Sept. 19, 1950. In 1972, to mark his birth centenary (1871-1971), a commemoration volume was published by a committee, which included Prof. V. Sitaramayya, Pu. Ti. Narasimhachar, Prof. N.A. Nikam and G. Marulasiddaiah. This Commemoration Volume was released by the then Governor of Karnataka Mohanlal Sukhadia.

In the world of Indian Philosophical Studies, Hiri-yanna's name stands tall. His unassuming demeanour, simplicity and down to earth personality masked a gigantic intellect. Kalidasa provides a parallel in "Raghuvamsa" when he says "Speak less for the sake of truth" (Satyaya-Mita-bhashinam). Prof. M. Hiriyanna practised silence of this type.

Pu. Ti. Narasimhachar's observation on Hiriyanna probably sums him up the best:

"Guru Hiriyanna was a Stithapragna in every sense of the term. He exhibited the quality of the well-bred gentlemen — an abhijatapurusa — one who gives his gifts in such a way none except the donor knows it, who knows how to welcome whoever comes to his house and make him comfortable, who is silent about his own good deeds but proclaims unreservedly of favours he has received from others, in whom fortune does not breed arrogance — who is averse to listen to stories about others and who is intensely devoted to learning. To me, Guru Hiriyanna is an ideal Indian, rooted in his own culture; he did not allow Western thought and culture to destroy the identity as an Indian. He digested them and assimilated into his system all the best of the West, its Philosophy and Literature. It is good to remember Prof. Hiriyanna, his life, his scholarship, his unostentatious benevolence, his dignified bearing and his keen sense of honour and independence."

The Father of Western Philosophy, Socrates, lived in Athens in 500 B.C. Like Socrates, Prof. M. Hiriyanna was open-minded, generous, inquisitive and friendly. He often helped students as an unknown benefactor by paying their fees. He kept an open house for students and often discussed philosophical problems, while washing his clothes in the backyard! His motto was "Simple living and high thinking."

During his lifetime, Hiriyanna came to embody the very essence of Indian Philosophy. He was a living example of the best of Indian values. He achieved both excellence and perfection in his life. He faced courageously the vicissitudes of life and the ups and downs of it. These did not deter his spirit from enjoying what may best be described as an "élan vital" (in the words of Henri Bergson).

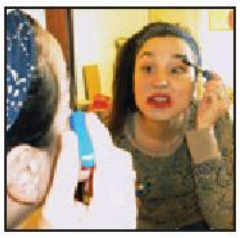
WORD OF THE DAY

Maladroit

Pronunciation: mal-uh-DROYT



Meaning: Lacking skill, cleverness, or resourcefulness in handling situations: inept.

Origin: To understand the origin of maladroit, you need to put together some Middle French and Old French building blocks. The first is the word mal, meaning "bad," and the second is the phrase a droit, meaning "properly." You can parse the phrase even further into the components a, meaning "to" or "at," and droit, meaning "right, direct, or straight." Middle French speakers put those pieces together as maladroit to describe the clumsy among them, and English speakers borrowed the word intact back in the 17th century. Its opposite, of course, is adroit, which we adopted from the French in the same century.

Examples: Any project, however carefully planned, is doomed to fail under maladroit management. "[Lucy Atkins'] tale of a high-flying television historian entangled with a socially maladroit and manipulative 60-something housekeeper is smart and horrifying in equal measure." — Geordie Williamson, The Australian, 16 Dec. 2017

PHRASE OF THE DAY

As different as chalk and cheese

Meaning: Two things that are very different from each other.

Origin: We have hundreds of phrases to indicate the similarity of one thing with another and similes like 'as alike as two peas in a pod' are commonplace in everyday speech. There are far fewer expressions that explicitly refer to the difference between things; 'as different as chalk and cheese' is the most commonly used. This is an old expression and the earliest citation is in John Gower's Middle English text Confessio Amantis, 1390:

Lo, how they feignen chalk for chese. Tourist boards in several of the chalkland areas of the UK try to place the phrase's origin in their locality and allude to vague connections between chalk and the local cheese. None of these is convincing and they clearly owe more to marketing than to etymology. So, how did the phrase come about?

There must have been a time in the development of English when we had no standard phrase to express the idea that two things were 'as different as X and Y'. When someone coined such a phrase, and that someone may well have been Gower in 1390, clearly he needed candidates for the roles of X and Y. That doesn't sound difficult, after all most things are different from most other things.
